DASHED FROM THE CAR

Serious Accident to Everard Todd, of the Smithsonian.

MAY POSSIBLY BE FATAL

While Stepping From the Motor to the Trailer He Was Hurled to the Ground as the Train Struck a Sharp Curve-Concussion of the Brain Is Feared-He Alone to Blame.

A peculiarly distressing and perhaps fatal ecident occurred on the Chevy Chase road a short distance from the Rock Creek bridge esterday morning. Mr. Everard R. Todd, document clerk at the Smithsonian Institution, fell from the electric car while attempting to pass from the motor to the trailer, and received injuries that may re-sult in his death.

Mr. Todd resides on the Pierce Mill road, a short distance from the Chevy Chase d. Yesterday moxing he boarded 24, of that road, at the intersection railroad of the Pierce Mill road, on his way to his He carried with him a small basket of plums, and it was a desire to exhibit those led to the accident.

He took a seat in the rear of the motor car and showed the phims, which were very fine, to a number of friends near him. As the train was nearing the Rock Creek bridge he noticed a friend in the rear car and it occurred to him to go back and show him the plums.

He got up, and stepping on the foot rail of the motor car be swung himseld and tried to grasp the hand rail

STRUCK THE GROUND HEAVILY. He succeeded in grasping the rail, and while steadying himself for the step across the car struck a sharp curve. The two cars swung wide apart at the side on which Mr. Todd was standing and he was dashed beadlong to the ground, falling several feet from the track.

He struck the ground with his full weight on his shoulders and the back of his head. He rolled over in the dust several times, after which he lay on his back perfectly otionless. The most intense excitement prevailed among the passengers of the train, to most of whom Mr. Todd was known, and as soon as it was brought to a standstill the con-ductor and several passengers ran to where the apparentlyy lifeless body lay in the road. Everything posible was done to restore him to consciousness, without suc-cess, and it was impossible to tell to what extent he had been injured.

There were no residences convenient to the scene of the accident, and after the ef-forts to restore him to consciousness proved fruitless, it was decided to bring him to the etvonthetrainandsecureimmediatemedical The cars were backed to the pot and the u spot and the unconscious man was tenderly picked up and made as comfortable as pos-sible on the rear sent of the motor. The nearest drug store to the terminus of the road is at Fourteenth and U streets, and as soon as the cars reached the city the unconscious man was conveyed there. The ambulance from the Garfield Hospital was sommoned and Mr. Todd was removed CONCESSION OF THE BRAIN. He was still unconscious when the am-bulance reached the hospital, and it was found that he had sustained a severe shock, and probably concussion of the brain.

Mr. Todd remained unconscious the greater part of the day and night, and the physicians in attendance say that his condition is While it is not thought likely that death will ensue very soon, they say it is almost impossible as yet to say how serlously he is injured. At a late hour last his condition had not changed mauight his condition had not changed materially.

Among the passengers on the two cars when the accident occurred were Mr. E. I. Renick, chief clerk of the State Department, Dr. Foster, of the National Tribune, Mr. Rethardson, of the Navy Yard, President Dunlon, of the Washington and Gerogetown Railroad, and Mr. Greshamand several other residents of Chevy Chase.

They say that Mr. Todd arose from his seat, simply remarking "I'm going to see some one on the other car," and started for the rear, passing along the foot board. for the rear, passing along the foot board.

He seemed familiar with the motion of the car and had no difficulty in walking back. His movements were rapid, and as the others did not pay much attention to him they hardly knew what he was about until they fall the carriers which is too.

until they felt the car swerve when it struck urveand saw Mr. Todd thrown headlong to the ground.

The stepping from a front to a rear car along the side while they were in motion is a particularly dangerous feat to one processored to it, but it is probable that the accident would not have taken place had not the train struck the sharp curve which separated the two cars on the side Mr. Todd was clinging to. His friends consider it somewhat remarkable that he should have attempted to make such a hazardous change, as he is usuallyvery cool and careful in his move-Every one who witnessed the accident, however, agreed that it was unavoidable, and that neither the conductor nor the motorman was in any wise to blame.

Didn't Point the Pistol. William Tenley, a contractor, was charged in the police court yesterday with carrying concealed weapons, by Edward Hall, a cart owner, whose carts had been used on Tenley's works. Hall claimed that when he went to the works to get his money a dispute occurred, and Mr. Tenley Anneostin, D. C.

Gently, gently, dearest mother, We will my thee down to rest. Sweetly sleep beneath the flowers, blooming sadly o'er thy breast, Thou art gone from all temptations.

Gone where angels feet have trod—
To possess a fairer mansion.
In the city with our God. on we may be called to follow. When on earth our work is done; Then in heaven we'll join thy number,

When labor is ended and victory we BY-HER CHILDREN.

Taking Sale.
'Twill be the event of the season.
The stock taking has been completed, and fter it was over great preparations were ande for the sale Fortwenty-four hours the store was closed ight, and a whole day's regular business was sacrificed in order that everything night be put in shape for this great event. The shopping world of Washington will long have cause to talk of a bargain feast without equal or peer in the history of midsummer sales. Bright and early this morning the doors will swing open for the beginning of a money-making, money-saving Buying Op-portunity that will shake up the dry bones of ordinary selling and show the city what the command of enormous facilities and unrivalled stock and superb assortment can work in wonderful combination. For this occasion it were desirable that his store had four times its space, for the tory of prices and qualities told in an-other column will pack the floors from early until late.

The wonderful displays are but an index to the wonders within, wonders of prices, wonders of quantities. The wonders of quantities. The wonders who misses this occasion will either do so for some extraordinary reason only if she has shopping wisdom. There will be an extra force of salespeople and everything has been arranged to facilitate the handling of an enormous business. entil late.

But 'twill be very advisable to come
